THE LIFE OF WATCHES. Influences and Conditions Which Affect All Timepieces. "Watches," said the jeweler, as he ewed a little glass into one eye and juinted into a case of wheels, "are like man beings in many ways. They are elicate; they run well only when in perfect order, and they require attention once in so often, whether they stop or not. They become sick, in a way, as we do and they get off their balance. But, unlike us, when their mainspring breaks, they are not necessarily done for, unless in another world. They can have new nainsprings. We can't.

"Watches, all jokes aside, are really altost human sometimes. They take cold-endily. Never lay a watch on a cold marble table or near an open window all night after you have worn it next to your warm body all day; it will contract a sort of pneumonia, and ten to one it will stop before long if the practice be continued. The cold contracts the metal pivots, which, small as they are, must not be smaller, and they shrink. Thus the wheel-cannot move.

"Watches are magnetized, too, by the persons who wear them. I have seen the statement that watches vary in timekeeping with the health of the wearer, and that if changed from one person to another they will also show slight va-ciations. All of that is true. The station mattons. All of that is true. The static electricity of a person many affect a watch. All of us throw this off; some more than others. Durk persons give off more than light ones do, and a dark woman more than anyone else. Dark women should have rubber cases for their watches if they wish to have them keep perfect time. keep perfect time. "Never lay a watch flat, at night, after has been worn in a vertical position day. It throws it off its base, so to tak. If the pivots be worn, the wheels

A sudden jar will often stop a watch, sich rons regularly at that; such a jar getting on or off a car suddenly. The irspring's catching does this. The joit es at the exact fraction of a second n the spring is in a position to h. This occurs at infrequent intervais, as may be readily imagined. A watch should be fed or oiled every eighteen months, even if running in the best of time. The oil dries in that time, and the wheels are likely to wear one

'All jewelers examine watches in the ome way, it seems to be a tradition of the craft. First, a man will look at the ends, as I have been doing. If they are hands, as I have been doing. If they are not caught, they will take out the balance wheel and examine the pin and the pivots, which you see here. Sometimes I do not find the trouble for days. The hardest thing to detect is a slight 'burr' on one of the wheels, this may throw the entire watch out of gear.

"Now I will wind this watch of yours, and show you that all the trouble with it is that it is run down. Unusual! Oh, no; that frequently hampens. Some one is

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Washington Offers Compensation for the "Can't-Get-Aways."

The Exodus Has Commenced Earlier Then I sunt, Leaving the Capital Deadly Dull-Gay Life at Newport -The Other Enshionable Resorts.

Washington is in the social doldrams, with nothing in prospect to ripple its summer calm. The hot weather is responsible for an exodus that usually does not take place before the last torrid days of July, and for eight week) to come the town-bound inhabitants of what was on Friday the officially announced hottest city on the Atlantic seaboard will proceed to enjoy themselves after the fashion of the old saw that runs: "If you can't be happy, be as happy as you can." People who are fortunate enough to achieve all-summer outlings are given to wasting an extravagant amount of pity on the dwellers within the city's gates. Naturally, the can't-get-aways would prefer the goods the gods haven't provided for them, but there is always a happy satisfaction to be got out of the knowledge that things might be worse. So the man and woman who can only afford a week's holiday in the heart of August wisely accepts the pleasures still to be gleaned in town. The botanical picnic is the newest diversion, and to be absolutely "technical" the party must be directed by a teacher-college graduate, by all means-and each student must assume for the occasion, if she feels it not, an absorbing passion for stamens, ristils, and stems. Trolley trips to the suburbs, soda water parties, front step receptions with fruits and Ices ad libitum, together with bicycle and automobile spins, make up a round of pleasant variety that even the meanderers at mountain and seaside cannot afford to scorn.

In referring to Admiral Dewey's recent risit to Newport, a New York daily says: The presence of Admiral Dewey in the eity has not made the stir that it would have a menth later or if he had come on pleasure instead of business. It is too early yet for society folk to give big entertainments for anyone, however noted. and besides, the Admiral showed last year while here on the same strand as at the present time that he would not allow pleasure to interfere with business and that he would accept no invitations to social festivities that would in any way conflict with the conduct and considera-tion of the naval affairs which had brought him here. And so the Admiral comes and goes from his boarding place to the War College, and few people ap-pear to know that he is in the city or to seek him out while he is going can one appreciate the maryelous beauty of the scenery until one's eyes have rested upon the hills and dales and waters that Aid Probable for Mrs. Mary E. Davis, the Colored Centenarian. Mrs. Mary Etta Davis, the aged colored woman, more than one hundred and twenty-four years old, whose life story was printed in The Times on Friday morning, received a letter last night from Mrs. Martha McWhirter, President of the Commonwealth, a colony of aged women in Kenesaw Avenue, inviting her and refinement from every section of the Union. It is an American scene with cos-mopolitan actors, and is the best filus-tration of the gay life of the people who to visit the institution, and spend a day with the old ladies who make it their home. In her letter Mrs. McWhirter said that can come as near enjoying an ideal ex-istence here as at any summer retreat and being herself over seventy years of and being herself over seventy years of age, and a Southern woman, she would like to meet Mrs. Davis, and talk over old times with her. Color, she said, made no difference with the members of the Commonwealth. Mrs. McWhirter will send a carriage for the old colored woman some time during this week, take her for a drive through the city, and entertain here at the home on Kenesaw Avenue. During the few days which have elapsed since The Times printed the story of Mrs. Davis wenderful age and vitality, considerable comment has been excited, and a movement is already on foot among those to whom she has been made acquainted, to learn the whereabouts of her quainfed, to learn the whereabouts of her last master, and, if possible, to discover affuential white friends who may be able

They are vitlated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves? In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languer, general debility. How are they expelled? By Hood's Sarsaparilla which also builds up the system that has suffered from them. It is the best medicine for all humors.
